Riverview Offers
Many Thrill Rides

Visitors to Riverview Park this season are impressed by the variety of entertainment offered.

First in popularity, of course, are the rides and the rides themselves offer endless variety. For those who like their excitement in mild doses there are such rides as the Mill on the Floss, the Merry-go-Round, the Ferris Wheel, the Caterpillar and the miniature train.

Then come the fast ground rides, including the Whip, Dodge, Indianapolis Miniature Speedway, the Boomerang, the Moon Rocket, Tilt-a-Whirl, and the Tumble Bug. Top thrills come with the aerial rides, the Pair-o-Chutes, half a dozen coaster rides still led by the Bobs, Flying Turns, the Octopus, Flying Scooters, the Strat-o-Strat, the Chutes and those two super-thrill rides, the Roll-o-plane and Rocket Ship.

But the rides are only one form of entertainment. There are three outstanding shows—the Headless Soldier which shows a live soldier apparently normal except that he has no head; Death Dodgers, a troupe of three girls and three men who make motorcycles defy gravity in a bowl with exactly vertical walls; the Lost—River, which presents rare animals and birds and features Zola, a woman who lies in a pit filled with snakes.

A third type of attraction is the "fun house" or "walk through", such as Alladin's Castle or Hades. In these merry-maker tumbles down slides, walks thru darkened horror chambers, over quaking floors and hidden air jets, thru mazes of mirrors and wire mesh, thru giant revolving barrels and down moving belts. Also in this general classification are Spook Town, a ground ride passing thru spooky chambers and the Water Falls in which one goes over the falls.

There's dancing at Riverview, too.
Louis Panico's orchestra is now being featured in the Riverview Ballroom. Dancing continues every night except Monday. For those entering thru the park, admission to the ballroom is free and dancing is five cents a dance. For an admission fee of 40 cents, dancers may enter the ballroom direct from the Belmont avenue entrance.

Young Cook Co.
Democrats to Hold Picnic

A marathon race from the City
Hall to Kolze's Electric Park 6343
Irving Park Boulevard and a citywide popularity contest are among the novel features planned for the Annual Picnic of the Cook County
Young Democrats, Sunday, July 16.

The Marathon Race is sponsored with the cooperation of the Central Amateur Athletic Union and the Marathon Runners Association. Runners will start from the City Hall at 11:00 a. m., and run thru the city streets to the picnic grounds. Entered in the race are leading amateur runners of the midwest.

The popularity contest, open to all girls who will attend the picnic will end with the selection of the most popular girl at the picnic at 4 p. m.
Grace Keane, Chairman of Women's activities of the Cook County Young Democrats, is in charge of the popularity contest and other women's activities at the picnic.

Other activities planned for the picnic include softball games at 1:00
p. m. races and contests at 2:30 p.
m. and free dancing from 4:00 p. m.,
to closing.

Admission tickets are free and can be secured from the Cook County Young Democrats, Room 1223, Morrison Hotel or from Young Democratic Clubs in the wards and suburbs of Chicago.

Members of the picnic committee include chairman, Alphonse Tomaso, 28th ward; vice-chairman, Rudolph

Binder, 48th ward; secretary, Daniel
D. Kipnis, 24th ward; Grace Keane, 31st ward; and Helen Silhanck, 15th ward. Officers of the Cook County Young Democrats are Henry F. Appel, President; vice-president, Erwin
"Bud" Arvey; treasurer, Jack Gordon, secretary, Joseph Mirabella.

Flag That Inspired National Anthem
Made 125 Years Ago for Ft. McHenry

THE original "Star Spangled Banner," the hand-sewn flag that floated over Fort McHenry and gave the United States its anthem, is still a national relic. Preserved in the National Museum in Washington, it will be the center of attention next September, when the nation celebrates the 125th anniversary of its making, and of Francis Scott Key's masterpiece.

The immortal anthem was written on September 14th, 1814, as Key rejoiced at seeing "by the dawn's early light" that the stars and stripes still waved. He had spent the night pacing the deck of a cartel ship and watching a British fleet's bombardment of the fort.

The flag, which continued to wave triumphantly as the attack failed, was made by a widow, Mrs. Mary Young Pickersgill, of Baltimore.
Mrs. Pickersgill's mother had made the "Grand Union Flag," under which Washington had taken command of the American Army at Cambridge, Mass., in 1776.

When the British invaded Chesapeake Bay, Mrs. Pickersgill was given the task of sewing a flag for the fort defending Baltimore. The order called for a mammoth banner, 30 by 42 feet. Because of the size, a large floor was necessary for the work. The mayor of Baltimore, Edward Johnson, provided the malling floor of the brewery adjoining his home. The walls of the building are still standing.

The huge flag contained four hundred yards of bunting, and Mrs. Pick-ersgill and her daughter, Caroline, with guidance from Mrs. Young, worked day and night to complete it.

After the battle, Mrs. Pickersgill embroidered around the holes in the shot-torn flag. In 1912 the "Star Spangled Banner" was presented to the National Museum by a descendant of the Commanding Officer of Fort McHenry.

Baltimore and the nation will celebrate the famous flag's 125th birthday in September.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 9.

The Golden Text was, "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me" (Psalms 51:10).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." (Matthew 16:24, 25).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Are all who eat bread and drink wine in memory of Jesus willing truly to drink his cup, take his cross, and leave all for the Christ-principle? . . . If Christ, Truth, has come to us in demonstration, no other commemoration is requisite, for demonstration is Immanuel, or God

the church are cordially invited to come. In case of rain the dinner will be held in the church parlors.

The WPA library of Orland Park which was closed during the holidays, has been redecorated and on July 5th was reopened for usual service.

Hay making has been in progress on most of the farms in this section the past week. Frequent and heavy rains have helped to make a very bountiful hay crop.

A new state law which went into effect July first, provides that villages by ordinance may have weeds cut at a property owner's expense, if he refuses to do so himself.

Weeds growing rampant on vacant properties comprise not only a general nuisance, but also a definite threat to the comforts of adjacent homes. Pollen blowing from the weeds may prove dangerous and insects attracted to the growths.

Next Sunday the second half of the league will start with Orland playing Worth at Orland. Game to start at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mattes and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Braun have been spending several days in Peru, Ind., visiting with relatives.

Postmistress Margaret Maue is spending her vacation in Wisconsin. Charles Hostert and Bobby Benson motored to Eagle River, Wis., Tuesday morning, on a vacation trip.

Mrs. Rose Moriarty and daughter Grace left Saturday morning for a four week's visit with the former's son, Francis and family in their home in Manitoba, Canada.

A private party was held at the Mitchell Brewery Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Warning entertained a group of relatives at their home Sunday.

Gordon Swanson showed moving pictures of the Pioneer Memorial cemetery dedication and parade and of scenes taken on a trip to the east and south, also of the King and Queen in Washington, last Sunday night in the front yard of the Anton Benson home. The pictures were very clear and were enjoyed by neighbors and friends who had gathered at the Benson home to view them.

NEW STYLE IN DRESSING TABLES

WITH its gleaming top of mirrored plate glass and amusing skirt of ayelet embroidery, this dressing table illustrates a steadily growing trend towards the Victorian era which is affecting fashions in furniture as well as clothes. Introduced in a showing of model rooms on exhibition in New York, the table is divided into three sections. The front part swings open to show shelves for toilet articles and permit the owner to sit down. The sash is of Duchess blue taffeta ribbon and, as can be seen in the picture, the mirrored top adds glamour with its interesting reflections.

MARLEY

By Mrs. Ward Bush

Those attending the services at the church on Sunday evening enjoyed a rare treat. The devotional part was led by Homer Sabin, Mrs. Francis Nelson read the scripture and there was congregational singing after which Mr. Chalmers introduced the guest speaker of the evening. She was Yeason Choi, a girl from Korea, who is a student at the University of Chicago, her aim being to return to her native land, better fitted to help her people in every way possible. Miss Choi wore a simple gown such as the women of her country wear; a long skirt, ankle length with a short packet and long sleeves. From the moment that she began to speak, her listeners were charmed by her unaffected manner and the utter sincerity which marked her talk. Her choice of words and command of the English language, which she did not know when she came to America three years ago, should put us to shame. She told of the geographical position and history of Korea and spoke at length of her people, customs, etc. The country which is no larger than the state of Minnesota, lies between China and Japan and boasts of a civilization and history older than that of Japan. She brought out the fact that since Japan took over Korea in 1910, the Koreans have not known what it is to enjoy freedom of speech, press or actions. She was very careful to emphasize the fact that she had nothing but love in her heart for the Japanese people. They are not to blame for what the military government have done and are still doing today. After listening to her one could not but realize that "we are all our brothers' brothers under the skin" and not so different though of various races and colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Good of Chicago were also guests of the Sunday evening club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruthven Chalmers were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gorham. On Sunday they were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Sass at dinner. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Farr are spending some time with their son, Richard and family in Forest, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Gillett and son were Sunday guests at the E. D. Gillett home.

All members of the community were invited to a charity party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Corp and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lauffer, at the Glenn Peterson garage last Friday evening. The chief amusements were dancing and cards. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore and daughter Ramona left Monday morning on a trip to parts unknown. Theirs should be an especially delightful vacation, as they have no cut and dried itinerary planned. They expect to stop when they fancy and wander where a sudden urge may lead them. They should have some interesting things to relate upon their return, and also some 'fish' stories to tell, as fishing is to be one of the attractions they are looking for. When they left here, it was the north woods.

Mrs. Fred Blodgett and Mrs. E. W. Bush attended a salad-coffee in the home of Mrs. J. W. Owen, Cherry Hill, Wednesday. The afternoon was spent making plans for the programs to be used during the coming year in the Will County Community Club League work.

Mrs. Mary Ninneman of Milwaukee, Wis., is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Dora Tilsy.

Miss Stella Knutson of Canada is visiting her cousins, Blanche and Maragret Dale.

Paul Hampel has returned to his home at Branden Castle, Fla., after a visit in the John Handorf Sr., home.

Mrs. Ruth Morrison accompanied her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Huisig of Joliet to Michigan for the week end. They visited Mrs. Alfred Heinz in South Haven and Mr. Huisig's parents at Howland.

Word has been received here of a delightful trip which is being taken by Mr. A. V. Barney and daughter residents of Chicago but for many years they lived in this community. They are always among those who "come back" for the 4th of July Home Coming and celebration. However, this year they were far away and have written that on that day they took the beautiful trip from Lake Louise in Canada thru the scenic Kicking Horse Canyon to Golden and ended the day with a swim in Radium Hat Springs. They expect to go up into Alaska, to the California World's Fair and visit other points of interests en route home. They will be gone all summer getting home just in time for Miss Barney to return to her duties as a teacher in the Chicago high school.

Miss Florence Bush who has been convalescing from a recent operation has resumed her work as assistant in the office of Dr. Eugene Drenning in Joliet.

MOKENA

Stanley Williams, Annabelle Diest, Wm. Muchler, Gertrude Sippel, Harry Oswald and Welman Shoppe are spending this week, vacationing at Dewey Lake, Dowigiac, Mich.

Mrs. Alma Stamer, mother of Mrs. Adolph Steen is ill and confined to bed in her home in Chicago, suffering with heart trouble.

Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGuire, who suffered a burn on his leg July 4th, is improving very nicely. The accident occurred when a spark from a lighted fireworks display, sent a spark into the balance of the fire works, which all exploded at the same time. A spark from this explosion hit Raymond, who with his parents were at the Joseph Gee home enjoying the fireworks display.

Miss Rosebud Hyink of Palos Park was a visitor in this paper's office Tuesday and became quite interested in type lice, so much so, that she is thinking of taking up the subject of zoology when she gets into high school.

Word comes from the Nebeker family who are spending the summer in Maine that they are enjoying the lakes and ocean. They expect to visit the home of the famous poet Henry W. Longfellow this week.

Rev. W. J. Geffert and family are spending their vacation in St. Louis. Ludwig Muehler returned Saturday from Tuscaloosa, Alabama where he had been visiting for three weeks with his brother Max who is the representative of a big bakery oven manufacturer.

Ludwig visited the state university at Tuscaloosa and had the privilege of seeing many other interesting places and sights.

MOKENA GARDEN CLUB NEWS

The Mokena Garden Club is busy making plans for their annual Flower show to be held August 24th in the school gymnasium. The very favorable weather will help gardeners to have even more beautiful flowers and vegetables than usual, and therefore the flower show promises to be outstanding in every respect. We are all looking forward to every one cooperating to help make this annual affair a great success. The last meeting of the Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. H. Mall and was very well attended. We all learned a great deal about the locust which appeared in such great numbers in this territory this year. That was the subject which was chosen to be discussed on that day.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Rene Guindon amidst her beautiful gladiolas.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"OFF-GUARD" PICTURES

For more natural pictures, catch subjects "off-guard"—unaware of the camera.

MOST people like to have their pictures taken. In fact, they like it so well that when they see the camera they put on a special "picture expression." And as a rule this special "picture face" isn't what we want at all.

There's a way to keep your subjects from seeming camera-conscious. Briefly, it is—"Catch them when they aren't looking." Don't let them know their picture is being taken.

Pictures so taken are known as "off-guard" snapshots. Such snapshots attract attention because they picture the subject in a natural, characteristic pose and get away from the usual look-at-the-camera-and-smile type of picture with which we are all too familiar. An "off-guard" picture can tell a real story while the other type tends to be just a record picture.

How to take them? It's easy. Just learn to handle your camera unobtrusively. Wait until your subject is paying no attention to you. Then casually snap his picture. It's all a matter of using your camera nonchalantly and efficiently. The better you can do that, the more easily you can capture snapshots that are truly "off-guard."

If you use a focusing camera, with fast lens, try to anticipate picture opportunities, and set the camera in advance for distance and proper exposure. Then when the snapshot chance develops, all you need do is shoot.

For example, to take the picture above, the camera was set in advance for six feet. Lens and shutter were set for an exposure of 1/50 second at f.11—less than normal, because the bright, sunny beach was reflecting plenty of light. On a grassy lawn, which reflects little light, exposure would have been 1/50 at f.8. With his camera pre-set, all the picture taker had to do was wait for the melon to be cut, and catch his companion's delighted expression. It was just a matter of lifting the camera and snapping the shutter.

If you haven't tried taking "off-guard" shots, try it. It's fun, and the results are a delight.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Potential Enemies Help Reich Build Powerful War Machine; 'Neutrality' Looks Like Myth

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

INTERNATIONAL: Armaments

What constitutes absolute "neutrality" in wartime has never made itself quite clear. Superficial neutrality under the U. S. law bans sale of arms and munitions—"lethal weapons"—yet under the amendment of Ohio's Rep. John M. Vorys such indispensable war-making equipment as trucks and commercial airplanes may be sent abroad. Early July, when the neutrality bill was making its way through congress, found the agriculture department proposing government subsidized export of cotton in a program whose chief benefactors would be aggressive Germany and Japan, both of whom need cotton to stuff into their ammunition.

But U. S. participation in dictator rearmament is only part of the picture. Though France has just banned shipment of scrap iron to Germany, though Britain's new ministry of supply will have the right to ban such shipments, profit-conscious democracies and dictatorships have no moral compunctions about such things; scrap iron or any other material of Mars is sold abroad to the highest bidder until domestic rearmament demands that it be kept at home. Samples: Last month Britain's liberal Lord Davies told how scrap iron and steel exports from the United Kingdom to the Reich rose from 4,500 tons in July, 1938, to 17,000 tons in August, 21,000 tons in September (month of the Munich crisis) and 23,000 tons in December.

SCRAP IRON SHRAPNEL
British steel, British deaths?

France gave Germany 350 tons of pig iron last August when the Czech crisis was just rising, gave her 19,000 tons in September when the crisis was at its peak, and 75,000 tons in November. In March, when Germany took Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia, France still had no compunctions, selling the Reich 67,000 tons.

Still more revealing are Germany's 1938 foreign trade statistics, showing that 1,059,800 tons of Germany's total 1,146,027 tons of 1938 scrap iron came from Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Great Britain, Holland and the U. S., all potential enemies. In March, 1939, the same countries contributed 161,344 tons, which would make 1,936,128 tons if the same import level were maintained throughout the year. From the U. S. in 1938 came 462,782 tons; in March, 1939, came 20,175 tons.

HEADLINERS

DR. JAMES MONROE SMITH

Nine years ago the traveling president of Louisiana State university arrived at Baton Rouge in a Model T Ford and a 35-cent haircut. Late in June when he left for Canada, two New Orleans banks and one at Baton Rouge said he had $500,000 of their funds. The university missed $118,000 in good bonds.

A follower of the late Huey P. Long, who set out to build Louisiana State as revenge against Tulane, where he had been denied an honorary degree, Dr. Smith earned his doctorate at Columbia university teachers college, New York, in 1927. Meanwhile he served 10 years (1920-30) as dean of education at little Southwestern Louisiana institute.

Dr. Smith's disappearance climaxed a stormy career, a feature of which was his censorship of the school newspaper in 1934 to protect Huey Long from criticism. It is now reported that he raised his salary from $12,000 to $18,000 a year without the supervisory board's knowledge. Lush with oil and gas revenues from the state, busily spending money on an amazing building program, the university voted bond issues on which signatures were allegedly forged to secure the money with which Dr. Smith is said to have traded in more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Other import figures for Germany:

	1930	1937	1938
Sweden	6,725,432	9,083,751	8,992,331
France	2,779,868	5,739,513	5,056,121
Spain	1,824,880	310,540	1,082,551
Copper Ore (tons)
G. Britain	20,121	60,081	32,055
France	2,779,868	5,739,513	5,056,121
Belgium	64,970	66,752	53,710
Manganese Ore (tons)
U. S. S. R.	173,653	61,336	60,924
Brit. India	70,333	121,318	17,226

Nickel Ore (tons)
Brit. India	2,711	3,593	60
Greece	8,539
Canada	99	13,250	13,368

Most logical deduction is that the next World war may find British, French, Canadian, Belgian—and possibly U. S.—troops dying of wounds inflicted by armaments made of metal from their own homelands.

MEDICINE: Cancer

Standard treatment, but no sure cure for cancer is 200-volt X-ray treatment. Ten years ago Dr. Albert Soiland of Los Angeles began experimenting on animal and plant tissues with half-million volt X-rays, finding no visible difference in the biological effectiveness of the heavier ray. Only obvious result was that higher voltage penetrated deeper, with less burning of skin. Clinically, Dr. Soiland found something else. Reporting at Oslo, Norway, to the Northern Society for Medical Radiology, he said hundreds of cancers have been cured by the heavier ray after the 200-volt charge had failed. His conclusion: "A biological difference in action must exist if the final analysis is drawn from observations based on clinical facts."

PHILIPPINES: No Fears

World economists have long enumerated reasons why Japan should want the nearby Philippine islands, which even now are undergoing an orderly withdrawal from U. S. supervision. But never have military strategists told why Japan should not want the Philippines, moreover why such a conquest would be militarily and financially impossible.

Such, however, is the opinion of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, former U. S. chief of staff and now military adviser to the Philippines. Asked point blank for his opinion, General MacArthur admitted there were "so many imponderables involved I would be a fool to play the part of a prophet," yet offered an opinion based on "broad basic facts." The opinion:

GENERAL MACARTHUR
No prophet, but he has opinions.

Such a war must be brought to the Philippines, would cost more than $5,000,000,000 and 500,000 men, would risk almost certain foreign intervention by a powerful fleet, and might not then insure concentration of superior forces at any vital Philippine area.

Whether Japan even covets the islands is doubtful to the general. Puzzled over such popular beliefs, he told reporters such ownership would actually be a strategic weakness to Japan, splitting the empire militarily into two parts separated by broad oceans and with Chinese enemies between the two parts.

POLITICS: Invitation

Soon each major political party must choose its 1940 convention site. Though both groups look favorably on Chicago, no city or state could frame so flowery an invitation as that received by Democratic Chairman James A. Farley from the California legislature:

"Whereas, California is an ideal state within which to hold such a convention because of its adequate convention facilities . . . unsurpassed cuisine . . . best entertainment in the world . . . most equable spring climate . . . unexcelled vacation attractions . . . magnificent lakes . . . friendly, loyal people . . . foremost and most progressive state in the greatest nation on earth, now therefore, be it

"Resolved: That the assembly and senate of the state of California memorialize the national Democratic committee . . . to designate a major city in the state of California as a place where the 1940 Democratic national convention shall be held."

TERRITORIES: Paradox

As a newspaper and magazine editor Dr. Ernest H. Gruening became an opponent of "big-stick" policies, a foe of U. S. colonial acquisition and general all-around irreconcilable anti-imperialist. But time found him entering the interior department to head the division of territories and island possessions, which heretofore maintained jurisdiction over Hawaii and a few other territories.

But July 1 found this anti-imperialist assuming the most imperialistic job ever created by the U. S., an enlarged division of territories and islands which smacks of Great Britain's "colonial office." For the first time in history all U. S. offshore possessions excepting Guam and Samoa are included under the division's jurisdiction. Paradoxically, Dr. Gruening becomes chief administrator of colonies whose acquisition he has many times attacked. He also becomes the butt of "imperialist" and "dictator" charges.

Imperialist, anti-imperialist.

Quitting his job would be one salvation, but he prefers to stick it out and continue crusading for liberalism, meanwhile seeking a solution for his No. 1 problem child, Puerto Rico, now applying for statehood and presenting one of the most difficult tasks in insular administration.

EUROPE: August Crisis?

Continental crisis have come with such regular frequency the past year that most Americans have become bored with them, confident no boil will ever burst. By early July this sentiment was also felt in France and London, despite Nazi war counsels at Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat and mysterious goings-on in Danzig, which is Germany's next goal. No such confidence was felt by Paris and London officialdom, however. There were intimations that the most serious crisis yet is expected in August, delayed simply because German and Italian farmers must harvest their wheat before going to war. By that time both Nazi and Fascist war maneuvers will bring dictator armies to their peaks.

Neither Premier Edouard Daladier nor Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will confirm this fear, but confirmation is needless in view of preparations:

Britain. Summer leave for the home fleet has been advanced from August to July because of a decision to hold "exercises in August." More than 400,000 officers and men of the territorial army (like America's national guard) have been instructed to pack their furniture and wind up personal affairs before reporting for annual training period in August. A "white paper" announced an 89,300-man increase in the standing army. Meanwhile the first 34,000 conscripts under the universal service law were ordered to report July 15. Trial "blackouts" were planned at strategic points throughout July, followed by a big "blackout" smothering half of England August 9 and 10.

France. After telling parliament of a propaganda plot to split France and Britain, Temporary Dictator Daladier recessed his audience for the summer, but warned that an outbreak of war was momentarily possible, hence parliament might be recalled at a moment's notice. With an estimated 3,000,000 armed men on his borders, M. Daladier placed the nation on full war footing.

WASHINGTON HOROSCOPE

QUIZ—Congressional investigations always precede the last legislative session before an election year. Forecast in the coming recess are these highlights: Monopoly committee hearings; house committee hearings on banking and taxes; investigations of the national labor relations board and fair labor standards administration; WPA quiz; Dies committee on unAmericanism; civil liberties committee.

DATE—Originally set July 15, then advanced to August 3, adjournment of congress is now unpredictable. A special session may result if all "necessary" legislation is not passed.

Two Great National Policies Line Up Queer Combinations

President's Control of Money and Neutrality Legislation Bring About Political Mix-Up; Roosevelt Assumes Personal Command and Takes It on the Chin.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It has been often said that politics makes strange bedfellows. It does that many times. Seldom, if ever, however, has there been more unfamiliar faces extending beyond the same bed linen as occurred recently in congress. The political bed served as a temporary resting place for most of the Republicans, a flock of anti-administration Democrats and a sizable collection of "yes" men from the New Deal camp. It was such a ludicrous combination that my memory harkened back to the legend of the Kansas wheat fields where it has been said that owls, prairie dogs and rattle snakes nest together below ground.

Two great national policies, breast fed and clothed by the New Deal, were the issues that brought about the strange alignment of politicians. One question was whether President Roosevelt should be allowed to keep his "emergency" power to tinker with the currency and to buy silver, both domestic and foreign, at prices that provided a subsidy for silver producers. The other question involved this nation's position in its relations with other powers—commonly referred to as "neutrality" legislation.

It ought to be noted, in passing, that the queer and somewhat humorous combination of conservative and radical political warriors delivered a series of uppercuts to the point of Mr. Roosevelt's political chin. They did it several times. Mr. Roosevelt did not like it. He squawked about the obstructionist tactics, which was what they were. But his shrill cry about the tactics was predicated upon argument quite as silly as the political alignment which brought about the temporary defeat.

Trade Brings About Some Strange Combinations

While Mr. Roosevelt's argument was as full of holes as a sieve, it strikes me that it probably was less to be condemned than the action of some of the members of the senate in the same series of controversies.

The strangest of combinations among the politicians evolved from a trade between the Republicans and the portion of the majority in the senate to which I have referred. Senators from silver producing states, some Democrats, some New Dealers, and the Republicans made a deal—a very polite description of the transaction. It worked out so that the silverite senators gave their votes to the Republicans who were seeking to take away Mr. Roosevelt's "emergency" power to change the value of the dollar. The Republicans also wanted to put an end to the administration's purchase of silver produced outside of the United States.

In return for the silverite votes on these issues, the Republicans gave the silverites their votes to increase the price paid for silver mined in this country. The Republicans gave the silver producers an additional subsidy of about 13 cents an ounce, or agreed to stand for that much.

It was a rotten combination, a trade that smells. I have long argued that silver purchase at prices above the market was typical of a great deal of the theory that dominates current administration policies, but that senate combination on the basis which we know cannot justify, nor be justified by, the desire to correct unsound policies.

There was an old demagogue in the senate some years ago who said, in a flight of oratory, that "it is sometimes necessary to rise above principle for the party's sake." His soul ought to rest in peace, forever, because his goal was more than achieved by the rare political trade among the senators and by the type of argument Mr. Roosevelt made in demanding retention of his "emergency" powers over money.

No Attack Made by Anyone Upon Stabilization Fund

While Mr. Roosevelt was only temporarily defeated in his program for control of the money of the country, it might be well to review the shallow argument he put up as the reasons why the "emergency" powers should be continued. He said, for example, that taking away his control of the dollar and the right to subsidize silver was like laying up half of the navy's ships in the navy yards. I do not follow that analogy, so I will forget about that one. The other argument was that withdrawal of the power to devalue the dollar would place the nation's currency again in the hands of the Wall Street gamblers. Mr. Roosevelt said they would speculate in currencies and that there would be trade wars again. It was the same old story: When you have no other goat, jump on Wall Street.

But it is well just here to point out one phase of the situation that resulted largely from the stubbornness of the President. Throughout the battle with the senate over the so-called monetary bill, there never was an attack by anybody upon the stabilization fund, also an emergency proposition. There is $2,000,000,000 in that fund and it is managed by the treasury which seeks, by purchase or sale of foreign currencies, to maintain some even relationship between American and foreign money. It has worked well. It will be continued, without a doubt, and it certainly should be. As a piece of constructive money machinery, it shines like the millions of dollars of unneeded and useless silver that has been purchased by subsidy payments. The stabilization fund is the thing that prevents Wall Street speculation in currencies, not the President's power to devalue the dollar. But because Mr. Roosevelt insisted on all of the powers being continued beyond June 30, of this year, the whole thing went smash. Thus was necessitated new legislation to get even the good parts of the program.

Roosevelt Takes Command Of Situation; Program Flops

Mention ought to be made of how the whole program crashed, or was tossed out. When the Republicans and the Democrats and New Dealers from silver states made their deal, it appeared that Mr. Roosevelt would be satisfied to continue to buy silver from American producers and to operate the stabilization fund. But he wasn't. He rushed to Washington from his Hyde Park, N. Y., estate and took command. The bill which the senate had subjected to emasculation under the strange-bed-fellow combination originated in the house. It has to be sent back to the house, therefore, to have the amendments considered. That meant a conference between special delegations from the house and the senate, and here was where Mr. Roosevelt got busy. He directed the house delegation to refuse the senate amendments, and the senate conference delegation, being headed up by Majority Leader Barkley, another equally fervent New Dealer, Senator Wagner of New York, and a sometimes New Dealer, Byrnes of South Carolina, yielded to the demands of the administration.

That circumstance is not unusual in legislative affairs. But it was thought the senate coalition of Republicans and silverite senators would be able to force some sort of a compromise. That did not happen. All of the senators who had sold their votes for a higher price for silver turned tail and ran. They left the Republicans holding the bag. Which would have been very bad for the Republicans, except that all of this happened during the day of June 30, and the powers involved were to expire at midnight, that night, by limitation in the law itself.

The Republicans were pretty sore about the situation. They had the element of time on their side, however, and so they engaged in "legitimate discussion" of the amendments, of the perfidy of the silverite senators, of Mr. Roosevelt's reasons and other things, until after the witching hour of midnight. The whole thing ended on a sour note.

Voting Usually Reflects Sentiment of the People

So the circumstances as we have seen fail to do credit either to the President, or the senate Republicans or the senate New Dealers. It was a pretty low grade of politics, but it disclosed one thing: there is rather large representation in the house and the senate which has lagging confidence in Mr. Roosevelt. Now, pursuing that further, I have noted the usual voting of house and senate rather reflects the sentiment throughout the country.

I think this lack of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt is further shown by the long drawn-out battle over what powers the President should have in dealing with international problems. Mr. Roosevelt has asked for rights that would let him designate "war zones," and would permit him to order Americans away from them. He has sought to obtain legislative authority to sell arms and munitions if they are sold for cash and carried away from our shores by boats of the purchasing nation.

Some of the things he has sought seem to me to be reasonable, but the house has not thought so, and I expect the senate will have many words to say about them also. There is so much stalling and maneuvering and efforts to save political faces that certain conclusions are inescapable. I referred to the lack of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt displayed in several ways. It is perhaps more manifest with respect to the neutrality question than in any other way. Indeed, it has been gossiped around Capitol hallways for a couple of months that congress will not adjourn as long as international crises are popping around like firecrackers. That, of course, is an exaggeration; but it is not exaggeration to say that a considerable number of senators and representatives do not want to leave Mr. Roosevelt an entirely free hand in international dealing.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it what and cure it afterward. Find out first what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful, young Kay Forrest has been employed by Christine Maynard, photographer, to pose for a series of pictures, the background of which will be the exquisite Cathedral Gardens, famous Southern resort. Unknown to them, one Jeff Butler, mean, unscrupulous "swamp angel," has led a friend to spy on the two women. Kay, of necessity, is scantily clad while posing for the camera studies. Kay frequently stays with Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, her son Barney, of whom Kay is very fond, and her daughter Margaret. Mrs. Hamilton, a remarkable woman, conceived the idea of the Gardens following the death of her husband. One night, after a local dance, Kirk Reynolds, a ne'er-do-well gambler of Beverly, a resort town, and Kay go for a ride. Kirk's car collides with that of Harvey Jackson, and during the ensuing argument Kirk whips out a gun and kills the young, popular engineer. Kay is completely stunned by the tragedy. Kirk threatens to drag her into the thing if she tells even her father. Terror-stricken, she agrees to remain silent. However, the next time she goes out with Barney, he realizes something is wrong. She tries to reassure him, but tells him nothing. Mrs. Emma Forrest, Kay's mother, looks upon herself as being completely righteous. She is firm, positive and demanding. Her father is exactly the opposite, kindly and unassuming.

Mrs. Forrest found it necessary to make her point more impressively. "Andy hasn't gone to work yet."

Kay glanced without particular enthusiasm at the sturdy figure of her brother. He was clad in the habiliments of a garage mechanic. But she merely said, "I see he hasn't."

"Sit down, my dear. We wish to talk to you." Emma's requests were always unmistakably commands.

Kay seated herself, but not comfortably. She was grateful for the presence of her father . . . however unable he was to render assistance in this domestic crisis.

"Do you realize," inquired Mrs. Forrest, "that this is supposed to be your home?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Then why don't you stay here instead of gallivanting all over the country all the time?"

"I wasn't gallivanting, Mother. I've been staying with the Hamiltons."

"And driving out every night with that worthless Barney Hamilton."

She said, "Barney's all right."

"He doesn't work," interjected Andy virtuously. "Just plays around. I've got no use for these

"You keep out of this, Andrew Forrest."

fellows that think they're so elegant."

Mrs. Forrest was not to be diverted. "Beverly is talking about you, Katherine."

"That's nothing new."

"And it's not new that you're not ashamed of it."

"Why should I be? I've never done anything wrong."

"You went to one of those terrible orgies at the hotel, didn't you?"

Kay was battling for self-control. "I don't see anything wrong with that, Mother. They're just dances

"Riff-raff! Tourists! No decent girl would be seen there."

"Now, Mother . . ." It was Andrew speaking. Mrs. Forrest flashed her husband a hostile glance. She said, "You keep out of this, Andrew Forrest. I'm Katherine's mother, and God knows I get no help from you in trying to raise her as a lady."

"I was only going to say . . ."

Kay shrugged wearily. "Keep out of it, Dad."

"You see?" Mrs. Forrest's voice crescendoed triumphantly. "There's your own daughter giving you orders. Telling you not to interfere in her upbringing . . . as though you would, anyway."

Kay leaned forward. She said, "Suppose you stick to me, Mother."

"Such impertinence! Andrew, are you going to let your daughter speak to her own mother in that fashion? I declare I don't know what I've ever done that God should have given me such a child." She was whipping herself into a fury of virtuous anger. "And you listen to me, Miss—I'm not going to stand it any longer. It's time I set my foot down. From now on, you're going to do as I say."

Andy spoke again. "You stay away from Kirk Reynolds, Sis."

Kay was startled. "And if I don't?"

"Then I'll have to take matters in my own hands."

She smiled slightly. "Better not, Andy. I don't think you could scare Kirk very easily."

Mrs. Forrest had risen. She was a purposeful and dominant lady, overflowing with righteous indignation.

"Will you promise me never to talk to Kirk Reynolds again?"

Kay met her mother's eyes squarely. "No, ma'am."

"Why not?"

"Because I don't make promises that I can't keep."

"Can't! Can't! You hear that, Andrew?"

"Now, Mother—aren't you a trifle hard on Kay?"

"No! Certainly not! I'm only doing my duty as a mother . . ."

From outside came the insistent honking of an automobile-horn. Four pairs of eyes quested through the window toward the curb. Mrs. Forrest said, "Of all the nerve!" and Andy gasped, "It's Kirk Reynolds."

Kay rose. Her face was white. She walked from the room and onto the porch. Her voice came back to them—clearly. She called, "I'll be with you in a minute, Kirk."

She walked up to her room; not hearing—or not noticing—her mother's statement that she positively was not going riding with that ruffian. She did hear, faintly, her mother's protests that this was more than any good woman should be called upon to stand. She heard her mother stating to husband and son that the neighbors would talk, that this was an unbearable disgrace—her own daughter riding around in bright, broad daylight with a professional gambler. She called upon Andrew Forrest to do something about it, and Mr. Forrest—glad enough to escape—plodded up the stairs after Kay.

Andrew Forrest was a meek person, albeit a gentle and kindly one. By profession he was a lawyer; a keen student who was consulted on intricate matters by his less-learned contemporaries. His practice was arduous and not very remunerative. He was short and slight and on the verge of baldness. His eyes were gentle and not too strong. He was a student and a philosopher; a man of scrupulous integrity—both of thought and deed.

He came now into his daughter's room and touched her shoulder affectionately. He said, "Must you, Kay?"

She nodded. "Yes, Dad."

"I'm sorry. Your mother isn't entirely wrong, you know. Kirk is bad medicine."

"Yes, Dad."

"And you still feel . . . ?"

"Just this once. I'd rather not, but I can't help it."

His eyes clouded. "Something serious?"

"Yes . . ."

"And you can't tell me?"

"I wish I could."

He smiled bravely. "Don't forget we're buddies, Kay."

She kissed him, hard, on the lips. "You know how much I love you, don't you, Dad?"

"I know," he patted her shoulder gently. "Watch yourself, Kay. And don't forget you're mighty young."

She walked downstairs, swiftly, purposefully. Mrs. Forrest made a last, desperate stand. "I order you not to go out with that man."

Kay's glance was unyielding. "I'm sorry, Mother."

She passed through the front door, climbed into the little coupe beside Kirk Reynolds and rolled west on Chicora Avenue. Her lips were tight set.

Kay said, "You sent for me, Kirk. What's wrong?" And he answered, "Plenty."

They rode in silence, Kay's eyes cloudy with trouble; Kirk's face inscrutable. The sapphire sky was brilliantly clear, the April sun bright and warm, yet Kay shivered.

A car approached them, coming from Chicora. The driver saw Kay as they passed, and her face flushed. It was a brief passing, a quick recognition . . . yet Kay knew, without looking around, that the driver of the other car had been startled—and that he had turned to look after her. She said, somewhat bitterly, "It would be that way."

Kirk said, in a flat voice, "Who was it?"

"Barney Hamilton."

"The lad whose mother owns the Gardens?"

"Yes."

They reached the intersection of the concrete Federal highway and Kirk swung to the right. His voice was toneless, almost disinterested. "What's the setup there, Kay?"

"Where?"

"Between you and that Hamilton guy?"

"What difference does it make?"

"None. I just asked."

His eyes did not leave the broad ribbon of road which unwound under their wheels.

Kay said, "I like him—a lot."

"So I imagined."

"What made you think so?"

"Your expression when we passed him."

That faint, mocking smile passed briefly across Kirk's lips. "Has he gone for you?"

"I don't know."

"Okay. But he has."

Kay's body felt uncomfortably warm. "I'd rather not talk about Barney."

"—To me, you mean?"

"Yes." Her own voice had become edged. "And I might as well tell you something else, Kirk. This is my last ride with you."

"That so?"

"Yes. People are talking . . ."

His voice was sharp. "Who?"

"Everybody. My family and—"

"What are they saying?"

"That you're not the sort of person a nice girl should be going with."

He laughed mirthlessly. "I'm not." Then, after a brief pause, "Are they saying anything else?"

"I don't know."

"I mean about the last time we were out together?"

She shrank away from him. "Please, Kirk . . ."

"They will," he remarked acidly, "sooner or later."

She said, "I know it. That's why I'm not going out with you any more."

He didn't answer that. His foot depressed the accelerator ever so slightly and the speedometer moved ahead to forty-five. The road was broad and smooth, cars buzzed by, farm cars and trucks and several big sedans headed toward Beverly and Cathedral Gardens. Kirk said dryly, "Your boy friend's mother has done quite a job."

"Please, Kirk . . ."

"She has, really. The town was dead until she came into the picture."

"I'd rather not . . . Why did you send for me?"

"Reasons."

"Nothing wrong, is there?"

"Yes."

"You mean . . . ?"

"You'll find out."

She pressed her lips together. "Please take me back."

"Not now."

"But it's getting late."

"Not noon yet."

"Where are you taking me?"

"Springdale."

"To Springdale? But Kirk—I can't!"

"Yes, you can. You can do exactly what I say."

She glanced at his face. It was like granite. Hard. Unconscionably hard and dangerous. She asked, "Why are you taking me there?"

There was no emotion in his voice. He made a flat statement. "Where are you taking me?"

He said, "You and I are going to get married."

Kirk Reynolds drove on in silence. He might have said, "The weather is pleasant." He might have said, "We're going to Springdale for lunch." Instead, in just so casual a manner, he had stated that they were about to be married.

Kay's hazel eyes were wide and frightened. Unconscious of the gesture, she pressed one hand against her lips. She didn't even ask whether he was serious. Kirk was not addicted to making statements which he did not mean. But she did say, "I don't love you" and he answered, tersely, "That has nothing to do with it."

Words were a relief. "It's impossible," she declared and he smiled again; that mirthless, mocking smile. He said, "I don't think so."

Then she asked, "But why? Do you think that you care for me?"

"No."

"And yet . . . Oh, Kirk! You're joking, surely."

"Not exactly. Here's the license."

He tossed it into her lap. It had been issued in Springdale, that prosperous agricultural county which adjoined Beauregard on the north. The names stared up at her: Kirk Reynolds, age 28; Katherine Forrest, age 19. "We'll be married by a magistrate or a preacher. It's your wedding. Take your choice."

The thing was too startling, too bewildering. She said, without conviction: "I won't do it!"

"Yes, you will."

"But why?"

"Because I say so."

"I can't!" she cried desperately. "It isn't possible. I—I'm in love with someone else."

He shrugged. "That makes no difference." He turned his cold eyes upon her. "Perhaps you've forgotten that night."

"No! I couldn't forget that."

"Then try to remember exactly what happened. Perhaps then you'll understand whether I'm fooling."

She turned frightened eyes upon him. "Is it really necessary, Kirk?"

His explanation was, to him, sufficient. It was made without interest, a mere cold statement of fact. "In this State," said Kirk Reynolds, "a wife cannot be compelled to testify against her husband."

The preacher, a rather gaunt and unkempt individual, pronounced Kirk Reynolds and Katherine Forrest man and wife. Then, gratuitously, he intoned a long and sonorous prayer, during the course of which Kay kept her eyes fixed upon the minister's wife: a nondescript person in a long coat which had been donned hurriedly in the present emergency to cover an unceremonial wrapper. Behind her stood a grinning Negress, impressed into service as a second witness.

Kay had ceased to think. She had ceased to feel. She knew that something terrible was happening; something of awful finality. She knew the same cold fear which had paralyzed her that night on the road when a gun had spoken harshly from Kirk's hand, and now she sensed, rather than saw, Kirk produce a wallet and press a bill into the far-from-unwilling palm of the preacher.

She wanted to laugh. Or to cry. She was audience and actor. It was as though she were preparing to leave the movie theater in Beverly after having suffered through a dreadful and unreal tragedy. She heard the whispered, surprised comment of the portly Negress, "Golla! Don't look as if he's even gwine kiss the bride."

When they were in the car again, headed home, Kirk drove slowly. Once he even smiled, thinly, as he said, "Snap out of it, Kay."

She nodded, waiting for him to speak again.

"Do you understand why I did it?" he inquired.

"No . . ."

"Had to. You're not a bad kid, but you happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time. Now I'm afraid Beverly is wising up."

"Snap out of it, Kay."

Conversation—even this sort of conversation—was a relief. She said, "What do you mean?"

"You pulled a dumb play that night. You dropped your compact near Jackson's body."

"My compact . . . ?" She remembered missing it. "But it wasn't marked."

"Folks knew it was yours."

"It could have belonged to any tourist, couldn't it?"

"It could. But it didn't. Where'd you get it?"

She said, "Barney Hamilton gave it to me."

"I thought so. None like it in Beverly. Swank stuff. And there's not a woman in town who hasn't noticed it. I only found out yesterday it had been picked up—out there."

"They—they couldn't prove it was mine."

"They could try," he stated dryly.

"But I promised you I'd never tell what I saw."

"Sure you did. You'd have been too wise to blab. But you're a kid. Smart enough in some ways, but dumb as hell in others. The Solicitor for this circuit is shrewd. He's been asking questions. Lots of folks remember we were at the dance together and that we went riding that night. If you had been picked up suddenly and had a bucketful of questions thrown at you, you'd have given yourself away."

"But can't they still do that?"

"Sure. And where would that get 'em. You might even be tricked into telling the truth. Not meaning to, of course. But what good would it do? What you tell the Solicitor ain't evidence in this State. They've got to get it out of you on the witness stand, and they can't make you take the stand against me—now that we're married."

"You think they'll try you for killing Harvey Jackson?"

"Not now they won't. No witnesses. Couldn't possibly convict me."

"But if they're sure . . ."

"They're never sure. And if they were, that ain't evidence. You're the only person who could convict me. And you won't."

She was silent for a long time. Then, "What are you going to do now, Kirk?"

"About what?"

He shrugged indifferently. "Nothing."

"You mean . . ."

"Living together? Hell—I didn't marry you for that. So long as you keep your mouth shut, you can do what you want."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—As Andre Maurois becomes an "immortal," it would seem that there ought to be honorable mention, or at least a simple garland of some kind, for Mme. Maurois. Here a few weeks ago, he explained how his wife, also a person of distinction, learned typing and stenography to keep his script flowing smoothly and legibly to the publishers. He writes only in long-hand, said to be quite as cramped and illegible as that of Horace Greeley, and she alone of all mortals can translate it. Seat No. 35 in the French academy might still be vacant but for Mme. Maurois.

He was born Emile Herzog, in Rouen. His literary divagation was the first short-cut to immortality in a line of ancestral woolen drapers reaching back to the year 900 A. D. He was a bachelor of arts at 15 and a doctor of philosophy at 18. He began work in his father's factory, but got right on the job as a philosopher and literateur, so, when he was assigned to the British as an interpreter in the World War, he could fill them in on Byron, Shelley and Keats, and did so. Later he explained Disraeli to the English, and, around the clubs, they bit their pipe-stems and admitted that this French chap knew a lot of things they hadn't even suspected. "Ariel, the Life of Shelley" put him in the big literary tournament in 1923, where he has been ever since.

He is slight in stature, dapper and fastidious, with his thinning gray hair deployed carefully left and right, gesturing only cautiously with the sensitive hands of an artist. He has an acute, skeptical mind, interested in politics only in its historic sweep. He weighs words like an apothecary and it is as a craftsman and finished wordsmith that he qualifies for the academy. With keen insight, he has experted America on his numerous visits here, clocking us through the valley of despond. His latest appraisal found us moving out of national adolescence into fully rational, adult statehood. He hopes for the best, but is not a fuzzy optimist. The "decline of the humane ideal," he thinks, is the most disquieting trend of the modern world.

R. WALTON MOORE, of the state department, who will be 81 years old next February, like Mr. Chips, thinks the way ahead lies through the humanities. Mr. Chips showed he was no fossil when they tried to bench him, and no more is Mr. Moore—boarding the Pan American clipper for Europe.

He is amenable in old-fashioned behavior—a tall, quiet, gray, courteous Southerner—and alertly adaptable to all new devices of living. He is keenly interested in aviation, having taken many airplane flights along the Coast, and one on the German dirigible Hindenburg. The state department's participation in international arrangements for landing fields and the like has been in his hand.

In congress from 1919 to 1930, from Virginia, he was a colleague of Secretary Hull. President Roosevelt made him assistant secretary of state in 1933 and later counselor for the department. He is a bachelor, driving 15 miles to his work from Fairfax, Va. He looks as if he could end all war talk just by serving mint juleps all around.

HERE'S a general who has saved more men than any single general ever killed. He leads expeditionary forces against armies of jungle germs—Dr. Victor J. Heiser of the Rockefeller foundation. He is in the news with his report on food research in India, in which experiments in animal feeding suggest new access to health and well-being for humans.

On May 31, 1889, his father sent him to the barn to turn loose the horse, with the Johnstown flood rising. He floated away on the barn, his parents drowned, and he kept on going—through Jefferson Medical college, 16 times around the world in his 50-year fight against disease. Until 1914, he was with the U. S. marine health service, then with the Rockefeller foundation. His fame blazed out three years ago with his book, "An American Doctor's Odyssey," and later publications.

The prosperity of a country depends, not on the abundance of its revenues, the strength of its fortifications, or the beauty of its public buildings; but it consists in the number of its cultivated citizens, in its men of education, enlightenment and character.—Luther.
